书面表达

One possible version：

Dear Peter,

I have good news for you. There will be a show of traditional Chinese musical instruments in our city. As you are interested in traditional Chinese music, I'm writing to invite you to attend it with me.

It will be held in the city's museum next Saturday. Besides enjoying Erhu, Jinghu, Pipa, Sanxian, Guzheng, Konghou and many other traditional Chinese musical instruments, we can also enjoy wonderful performances by famous Chinese musicians. Moreover, it's a good chance for you to learn more about traditional Chinese culture.

Looking forward to hearing from you soon.

Yours,

Li Hua

听力部分材料

Text 1

W: Oh, I think I forgot my passport at home.

M: What?! Well, if we turned around now, we would miss our flight for sure.

W: Let me call my parents. They can go get my passport in our house and bring it for me.

Text 2

M: Can you stop what you're doing, please? I need you to wash the clothes. I'm busy making dinner.

W: But I'm on the last page of my book. Can you give me a couple more minutes?

Text 3

W: How did you do on your English exam, Jack?

M: The listening section was pretty easy, and I'm confident about the essay I wrote. But I didn't finish the last article of the reading section.

Text 4

M: I haven't seen you in the school canteen at lunchtime for days. What's up?

W: Well, I'm trying a new diet. In addition to breakfast and dinner, I've added two small meals, one around 10:00 a.m., and the other around 3:00 p.m.

Text 5

M: Wow, look at the view. It's so amazing! I can even see the roof of our school building from here.

W: Yeah! I'm glad we came here instead of riding the boat in the park. It was really worth our time to climb all the way up here.

Text 6

M: Let's share the bill. How much is it?

W: Sure. It's 80 euros in total, so 40 euros each.

M: All right. Here you go.

W: Huh? Why are you giving me all these coins?

M: Well, don't you usually tip here in Europe?

W: We do. But it's usually 10% of the total bill.

M: Wow, that's very low compared to the standard in the US.

W: What's the average tip in the US?

M: 15-20% of the total bill.

W: What? That's crazy!

M: I know. I think European standard is much more acceptable.

Text 7

W: How are you doing these days, Gary?

M: I'm doing well, Sally. But I've been thinking of moving.

W: Why? Has your rent been raised?

M: No, it's not that. I've got a new job, and my new office is kind of far from where I live now. It would take about one hour to get there by subway.

W: Wow, where exactly is your office?

M: It's on the western side of the city, next to the railway station.

W: Oh, I know where it is. Is there a car museum nearby?

M: That's right. The museum is only two blocks away from my office.

W: You know what? I have a friend who lives around there. I'll introduce you to each other. Maybe he can help you find an apartment nearby.

Text 8

W: What are your plans for the summer holiday?

M: I'm thinking of getting a part-time job at a gym.

W: Good idea. I babysit sometimes for my neighbor Mrs. Thompson while she goes to her yoga class.

M: That's cool. So what do you do when you babysit?

W: Oh, you know, you just make sure the baby is safe in the house. I also need to play with him.

M: Okay. Have you done anything else before?

W: I worked at an animal hospital last summer. My job was taking the dogs out for a walk every morning after breakfast. It was pretty fun. And the pay was good.

M: I like dogs, but I was bitten by one when I was little, so I'm kind of scared of them.

W: Ha-ha, I understand. I was chased by dogs a couple of times. Sometimes they can be very scary.

Text 9

W: It looks like it's going to rain soon. Look at the cloud outside. It's gotten so dark over the past half an hour.

M: Oh, you're right! I didn't even realize. It feels like 8 o'clock at night right now.

W: Exactly! It was still sunny when we went out for lunch just now.

M: Did you check the weather forecast this morning?

W: I did. It did say that there might be a storm in the late afternoon, but I thought it wasn't going to happen because the weather had been nice all morning.

M: Well, I hope it won't start until I get home from work later. I don't want to get caught in the middle of a terrible weather.

W: Maybe you can go home early today.

M: I can't. I need to attend a meeting at 4 o'clock. Our boss will be there, too.

W: Okay. Actually, my husband is picking me up from work today. We can give you a lift if it starts to pour later.

M: Thanks. That's so nice of you.

W: You're welcome!

Text 10

Dear customers, this is the store manager. I have a special announcement for you. I'm sorry to tell you that we're finally closing the store. Our store has been in business for over a decade. We hate to end the good relationships we had with our business partners and our customers. But it's time for us to move on. We'll be jumping into organic farming this March, and we've decided to close the store. We thought that our great customers should benefit from this change. So, we'll have a big sale for you! Here's how it'll work. On Monday, February 6th, we'll start the sale at 50% off everything — including all furniture, even the most expensive pieces. Whatever is left on Tuesday will be 60% off the regular price. On Wednesday, 70% off…and so on. Anything that's still around on Saturday will be free. Visit us on Monday and buy up the best of our products. Or, wait until the end of the week for a chance at the best bargains. Either way, you'll leave happily!
